I had the pleasure of working closely with Luke at Jitterbit, and I can confidently say that he is an exceptional web developer. Luke possesses a deep understanding of web technologies and has a strong proficiency in UI/UX and responsive design. His ability to translate design concepts into functional and visually appealing website is truly impressive.

In addition, Luke has an eye for detail and consistently delivers high-quality work on time. He is a true team player who collaborates effectively across the marketing team and with other stakeholders. He is a valuable asset to any team and I would highly recommend Luke to any organization seeking a talented and dedicated web developer who can deliver exceptional results.
